

Approaches to Violence (Working Draft)

- I. Preface
- II. The World of Violence
 - A. Approaching Violence
 - B. The Question of Henri Alleg: Social Movements and Violence
 - C. First Person Accounts: Truth and Falsity
 - D. Exercising the Eye, Defining the Field
 - E. Approaching a Practice: An Essay on Death by Stoning
- III. The Stories We Tell
 - A. What Has Torture Contributed to Civilization?
 - B. Why Social Scientists Should Care How Jesus Died
 - C. Rationalizing Punishment: How We Became Civilized and Modern
 - D. Violence out of Control: Slippery Slope Stories
 - E. “What Went Wrong?”: Tales of Torture from the 20th Century
- IV. Violators
 - A. Why Do People Do Violence?
 - B. Organizing Violence: The Problem of Many Hands
 - C. “We Don’t Torture Here”: Words and Deeds
- V. Victims
 - A. Approaching Pain
 - B. Resisting Torture: How to Face Inevitable Violence
 - C. Ordinary Betrayals: Ways Victims of Violence Get Lost
- VI. The Meaning of Violence
 - A. It Works. It’s Logical. It Fits: Introducing Phenomenologies of Violence
 - B. The Opposition of Masters and Slaves: Violence and Freedom
 - C. Torture Makes the Man: Doing Violence for Manliness
 - D. That Felt Better: Doing Violence to Clean House
 - E. “I Want to Live Forever”: Doing Violence for Immortality
 - F. Is There Truth in Pain?: Doing Violence to Find the Truth
- VII. Western Social Theory in the Face of the Future
 - A. Making Non-Violent Spaces
 - B. How Is Torture Compatible With Democracy?
 - C. After Feminist Analyses of Bosnia
 - D. Are NGOs Ready for the 21st Century?
 - E. Modernity and the Diversity of Violence