Kathleen Boozang has been Dean of Seton Hall Law since July 2015. She has served in multiple administrative capacities during her tenure at Seton Hall, including Associate Dean for Academic Affairs for eight years and Vice Provost for two years.

Dean Boozang came to Seton Hall in 1990 as the founder of the Law School's now top-ranked Center for Health & Pharmaceutical Law. Prior to becoming Dean, she also established the Law School's graduate degrees, Division of Online Learning and global life sciences compliance training programs.

Dean Boozang teaches a variety of health law courses in person and online including the survey health law course, a course on health care fraud and corruption, and death and dying. In her scholarship, Dean Boozang has dedicated much of her career to nonprofit governance issues with a special focus on religiously sponsored hospitals. In the last several years, however, she has expanded her research and teaching to explore the legal and policy issues related to corporate compliance, with a particular focus on the global life sciences industry.

Dean Boozang is a Fellow of The Hastings Center, an independent nonprofit bioethics research institute, as well as a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation, an honorary organization of legal practitioners. She is also a member of the American Law Institute and participates on the consultant groups for the Principles of Nonprofit Law and Corporate Compliance. She serves on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Health and Life Sciences Law and is a past editor-in-chief of the Journal of Law, Medicine & Ethics. She is past president of the American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics (ASLME) and also previously sat on the Advisory Board of the Journal of Health Law. Dean Boozang served for many years on the Board of Directors of the American Health Lawyers Association (AHLA), and remains involved in many AHLA projects.

Throughout her legal career, Dean Boozang has been active in public service. She has served on numerous advisory boards and committees for healthcare providers and for the states of New Jersey and New York, including serving as an advisor to the New Jersey Attorney General Task Force on Physician Compensation by Pharmaceutical Companies, which resulted in the promulgation of proposed regulation. She is a former member of the New York State Task Force on Life and the Law, an interdisciplinary commission with a mandate to develop public policy on bioethical issues.

Dean Boozang currently serves on the Board of Trustees of the St. Joseph Healthcare System in New Jersey. In 2013, the ASLME conferred upon Dean Boozang the Jay Healy Health Law Teacher Award. She was named the Seton Hall University Woman of the Year in 2006 and the Washington University Law School's Young Alum of the Year in 2004. She graduated from Washington University School of Law in St. Louis, Missouri, where she was inducted into the Order of the Coif and served as the managing editor of LAW QUARTERLY. She received her LL.M. from Yale Law School in 1990.
