

Kelly Harris

Assistant General Counsel, Cyber,
Privacy & Incident Response, Deloitte

After spending 5 years as a privacy and cyber lawyer at Prudential Financial, Kelly Harris is currently Assistant General Counsel, Cyber, Privacy & Incident Response at Deloitte.

In her role, Kelly provides specialized legal advice and counsel regarding information security and privacy laws/regulations, data usage and governance, and legal issues related to information protection, cybersecurity, and emerging technologies to all of Prudential's complex and federated businesses and groups. Before joining Prudential 4 years ago, Kelly spent 7 years helping to build the Privacy and Information Security programs at Wyndham Worldwide. She started her legal career as an associate with Kirkpatrick & Lockhart (now K&L Gates) and then Gibbons, PC before going in-house to Japanese pharmaceutical companies Daiichi Sankyo and Otsuka.

She is currently a member of the Board of the National Cyber-Forensics and Training Alliance, a non-profit corporation focused on identifying, mitigating, and neutralizing cybercrime threats through strategic alliances and partnerships with subject matter experts in the public, private, and academic sectors.

Kelly is a graduate of Douglass College/Rutgers University and Seton Hall Law School; she lives in Maplewood with her husband, Brendan, and their 3 children.