Professor John McNamara, Jr.

John McNamara, Jr. is an adjunct professor at Seton Hall Law School. He retired in 2022 as Chief Assistant Prosecutor in the Morris County Prosecutor's Office, where he supervised the Appellate and Special Investigations Units. Previously, he led the Major Crimes Unit and prosecuted numerous homicide cases, including capital cases. He also served as an Assistant District Attorney in the New York County District Attorney's Office, where he was assigned to the Homicide Bureau. Mr. McNamara earned his B.A. and M.A. in History from the University of Scranton and his J.D. from The Catholic University of America Columbus School of Law. He has served on several New Jersey Supreme Court committees, including the Committee on Model Criminal Jury Charges and the Criminal Practice Committee. He has also argued numerous cases before the New Jersey Supreme Court as amicus counsel for the County Prosecutors Association of New Jersey.