

PRIVACY, POWER, & ETHICS

April 5-6, 2019 | Newark, New Jersey

BIOGRAPHIES

---

Anita L. Allen-Castellitto, Vice Provost & Henry R. Silverman Professor of Law & Professor of Philosophy, University of Pennsylvania Law School

Anita L. Allen is a JD graduate of Harvard Law School and holds a PhD in Philosophy from the University of Michigan. Allen is Vice Provost for Faculty and the Henry R. Silverman Professor of Law and Professor of Philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania. She holds a secondary affiliation with the Department of Africana Studies and is a Senior Fellow of the Leonard Davis Institute of Health Economics. Allen is President of the American Philosophical Association, Eastern Division. Allen was inducted into the National Academy of Medicine in 2016. Under both of President Barack Obama's terms of office, she served on the Presidential Commission for the Study of Bioethical Issues. Allen has been a full-time visiting professor at Harvard Law, Yale Law, Villanova Law and Waseda

University Law School, Tokyo. Allen was a fellow of the Law and Public Affairs Program at Princeton University. Allen serves on the National Academies Forum on Cyber Resilience, and the Board of the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC). In June 2014, she received a Lifetime Achievement Award from EPIC for pioneering privacy scholarship and advocacy. Allen is an expert on privacy and data protection law and ethics, co-author of Privacy Law and Society (2016), a comprehensive textbook. Allen's sole-authored books include, Unpopular Privacy (2011); The New Ethics (2004), Why Privacy Isn't Everything (2003), and Uneasy Access (1988). Allen's ideas have been published in the Harvard Law Review Forum, the Stanford Law Review, the Chicago Law Review, the California Law Review, and many other law journals; she has published more than 100 scholarly articles, essays and book chapters. She is frequently quoted in major media and has contributed opinion pieces to newspapers, magazines and blogs (e.g., Daily Beast, Politico, Star-Ledger, O Magazine), appeared on numerous television and radio programs, and lectured and taught nationally and internationally in Canada, China, Japan, Taiwan, and Israel and throughout Europe.

Sahar F. Aziz, Professor of Law & Chancellor's Social Justice Scholar, Rutgers Law School

Sahar Aziz is Professor of Law, Chancellor's Social Justice Scholar, and Middle East and Legal Studies Scholar at Rutgers University Law School. Professor Aziz's scholarship adopts an interdisciplinary approach to examine intersections of national security, race, and civil rights with a focus on the adverse impact of national security laws and policies on racial, ethnic, and religious minorities in the U.S. Her research also investigates the relationship between authoritarianism, terrorism, and rule of law in Egypt. She is the founding director of the interdisciplinary Rutgers Center for Security, Race, and Rights. She is also a faculty affiliate of the African American Studies Department at Rutgers University-Newark and an editor for the Arab Law Quarterly. Professor Aziz teaches courses on national security, critical race theory, evidence, torts, and Middle East law.

Professor Aziz's academic articles have been published in the Harvard National Security Journal, Washington and Lee Law Review, Nebraska Law Review, George Washington International Law Review, Penn State Law Review, and the Texas Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Journal. Her book The Muslim Menace: The Racialization of Religion in the Post-9/11 Era is forthcoming with Harvard University Press. In 2015, Professor Aziz was named an Emerging Scholar by Diverse Issues in Higher Education and recipient of the Derrick Bell Award from the American Association of Law Schools Minority Section. In 2017, she was selected as the recipient of the Research Making an Impact Award by the Institute for Social Policy and Understanding (ISPU).

Professor Aziz's commentary has appeared in the New York Times, CNN.com, Carnegie Endowment's Sada Journal, Middle East Institute, Foxnews.com, World Politics Review, Houston Chronicle, Austin Statesmen, The Guardian, and Christian Science Monitor.

She is a frequent public speaker and has appeared on CNN, BBC World, PBS, CSPAN, MSNBC, Fox News and Al Jazeera English. She is an editor of the Race and the Law Profs blog. She also served on the board of the ACLU of Texas and as a nonresident fellow at the Brookings Institution – Doha.

Prior to joining legal academia, Professor Aziz served as a Senior Policy Advisor for the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security where she worked on law and policy at the intersection of national security and civil liberties. Professor Aziz began her legal career as a litigation associate for WilmerHale after which she was an associate at Cohen Milstein Sellers and Toll PLLP in Washington, D.C. where she litigated Title VII class actions on behalf of plaintiffs.

Professor Aziz earned a J.D. and M.A. in Middle East Studies from the University of Texas where she was as an associate editor of the Texas Law Review. Professor Aziz clerked for the Honorable Andre M. Davis on the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland.

---

Carliss Chatman, Assistant Professor of Law, Washington and Lee University School of Law

Professor Chatman teaches an array of business law, commercial law, and ethics classes including: Contracts and Sales and Leases; Agency and Unincorporated Entities, Corporations, Business Associations, and Securities Regulation; Professional Responsibility; and a Transactional Skills Simulation course with a Mergers and Acquisitions focus that incorporates corporate law and UCC Article 9. Her scholarship interests are in the fields of corporate law, ethics, and civil procedure. Her scholarship is largely influenced by 11 years of legal practice in complex commercial litigation, mass tort litigation and the representation of small and start-up businesses in the United States and the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. As a result, her scholarship is intersectional with a focus on issues at the heart of commercial litigation: the interplay of business entities, government and natural persons.

Professor Chatman's work is also influenced by over two decades of service on non-profit boards and involvement with community organizations. Through leadership positions, she has developed expertise in corporate governance and non-profit regulation. She has also been instrumental in strategic planning and fundraising efforts. Professor Chatman has actively advocated on behalf of non-profit organizations at state and federal legislatures.

Prior to law teaching, Professor Chatman was a commercial litigation attorney in Houston, Texas. In practice, she focused on trial law, appeals and arbitration in pharmaceutical, healthcare, mass torts, product liability, as well as oil, gas and mineral law. In addition to negotiating settlements and obtaining successful verdicts, Professor Chatman has also analyzed and drafted position statements regarding the constitutionality of statutes and the impact of statutory revisions for presentation to the Texas Legislature.

Professor Chatman is a 2004 graduate of the University of Texas School of Law, where she was a member of the Texas Journal of Women and the Law, and served on the Student Recruitment and Orientation Committee. She received her bachelor's degree in 2001 from Duke University with honors in English.

---

Jenny-Brooke Condon, Professor of Law in the Center for Social Justice & Director of the Equal Justice Clinic, Seton Hall University School of Law

Jenny-Brooke Condon is a Professor of Law in the Center for Social Justice where she teaches constitutional law and directs the Equal Justice Clinic. Her research and practice interests are at the intersection of civil rights and criminal justice reform. The Clinic engages in direct service and impact litigation to vindicate the civil rights of prisoners, immigrants and other vulnerable populations. The clinic also assists formerly incarcerated persons overcome the legal barriers to reentry.

Prior to joining the Seton Hall Law School faculty in 2010, Professor Condon was a John J. Gibbons Fellow in Public Interest and Constitutional Law at Gibbons P.C. where she engaged in a wide range of public interest litigation within New Jersey and nationally. Following graduation from law school, Professor Condon served as a law clerk to the Honorable Barry T. Albin, Associate Justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court. She then served as the Litigation Director for the World Organization for Human Rights in Washington, D.C. Professor Condon graduated from Seton Hall Law School magna cum laude, where she was a Chancellor Scholar, was inducted into the Order of the Coif, and served as an editor of the Law Review.

---

Jacob T. Elberg, Associate Professor of Law, Seton Hall University School of Law

Professor Elberg teaches in the areas of Health Law, Health Care Fraud and Abuse, Evidence, and Data Analytics. His areas of interest include corporate crime and compliance, the role of various actors in the enforcement of health care fraud laws and regulations, and criminal justice policy.

Prior to joining Seton Hall Law School, Professor Elberg served for 11 years as an Assistant U.S. Attorney at the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of New Jersey. As Chief of the Office's Health Care & Government Fraud Unit for five years, Professor Elberg led one of the largest and most impactful health care units in the country, supervising a team of 15 AUSAs and directing all of the Office's criminal and civil investigations and prosecutions of health care fraud offenses, including investigations and prosecutions of fraud against the government and private health insurance plans, illegal kickback schemes, violations of the Federal Food, Drug & Cosmetic Act, and the improper diversion of prescription drugs including opioids, as well as all health care-related actions brought by the Office under the False Claims Act. In addition, Professor Elberg supervised and directed investigations regarding Foreign Corrupt Practices Act violations, as well as fraud against certain other government agencies and programs. Professor Elberg launched the District of New Jersey's Data Mining Working Group and spearheaded the Office's efforts to utilize data analytics to identify, investigate, and prosecute health care fraud offenses.

In 2013, Professor Elberg was awarded the Department of Justice's Executive Office of U.S. Attorneys Director's Award for Superior Performance as an AUSA for his investigation and prosecution of Maxim Healthcare Services, et al., which resulted in a recovery of $150 Million (the largest ever in a home healthcare case), as well as the felony convictions of nine individuals in six states, including three senior executives of one of the nation's largest home healthcare companies. In 2016, Professor Elberg led the prosecution of Olympus Corp., resulting in a $646 million global criminal and civil resolution for violations of the Anti-Kickback Statute and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act – the largest total amount paid in U.S. history for violations involving the Anti-Kickback Statute and the largest resolution of any kind involving a medical device company. In 2018, Professor Elberg was awarded the Health & Human Services Office of Inspector General Award for Fighting Fraud, Waste, and Abuse for leading the investigation and prosecution of Biodiagnostic Laboratory Services, which resulted in 53 convictions, including 38 physicians – the largest number of medical professionals ever prosecuted in a bribery case.

Professor Elberg has been a leading speaker throughout the country on issues relating to health care fraud and abuse. He has been called upon to teach Department of Justice criminal and civil health care prosecutors from across the country on several occasions, including at the conference launching Deputy Attorney General Sally Yates's Individual Accountability Initiative.

Professor Elberg received his B.A., cum laude and with honors, from Dartmouth College and his J.D., magna cum laude, from Harvard Law School. After graduating law school, Professor Elberg clerked for the Honorable Nancy Gertner, United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts, and then practiced law as an associate at the firm of Dwyer & Collora LLP (now Hogan Lovells) in Boston, where his areas of practice included white collar criminal defense, internal corporate investigations, and general commercial litigation. He is a member of the Massachusetts, New Jersey, and New York Bars.

Tonya M. Evans, Professor of Law & Chair of the Intellectual Property and Technology Online Programs, University of New Hampshire School of Law

Tonya M. Evans, Esquire, is a Professor of Law at the University of New Hampshire School of Law, Chair of the Intellectual Property & Technology Online Programs. In her role as Chair, Professor Evans developed the UNH Law Blockchain, Cryptocurrency & Law online professional certificate program. Evans has expertise in the areas of intellectual property, new technologies (including blockchain and distributed ledger technology), entrepreneurship & innovation, entertainment law, trusts & estates, and municipal finance. She writes, speaks, and teaches primarily about the intersections of copyright and new technologies as well as estates law issues. Professor Evans is a member of the Consensus Grants Advisory Committee, International Telecommunications Union (ITU) Focus Group on Digital Currency including Digital Fiat Currency, the ITU Focus Group on Application of Distributed Ledger Technology, and also The Accord Project's IP Working Group, which works to develop best practices and standardization of smart legal contracts. Professor Evans was also appointed recently for a three-year term to serve on the Intellectual Property Committee of the Advisory Council to the Court of Federal Claims.

Ben Green, Author, The Smart Enough City, Affiliate at Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society & PhD Candidate in Applied Math, Harvard School of Engineering and Applied Sciences

Ben Green is a PhD Candidate in Applied Math at the Harvard School of Engineering and Applied Sciences and an Affiliate at the Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society at Harvard. He is the author of The Smart Enough City: Putting Technology in Its Place to Reclaim Our Urban Future, which will be published on April 9 by MIT Press. Ben studies the implementation and impacts of data science in local governments, with a focus on “smart cities” and the criminal justice system. Analyzing the intersections of data science with law, policy, and social science, Ben focuses on the social justice and policy implications of data-driven algorithms deployed by governments.

---

Kristin N. Johnson, McGlinchey Stafford Professor of Law, Tulane Law School

Professor Johnson is the McGlinchey Stafford Professor of Law at Tulane University, Associate Dean of Faculty Research and an affiliate of the Center for Law and the Economy, a collaboration between the Murphy Institute for Political Economy and the Law School. Professor Johnson is nationally recognized as a leading scholar of financial risk management and corporate law. Professor Johnson was previously a tenured professor at Seton Hall University Law School. She has been a Visiting Professor at the University of California-Irvine, University of Florida, University of Illinois, and Washington & Lee University Law Schools.

Professor Johnson earned her undergraduate degree in Comparative Political Economy at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service and her J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School, where she was an editor on the Michigan Law Review. Both before and after law school, she worked in finance in New York City, first as an analyst with Goldman, Sachs & Co. and later as a vice president and assistant general counsel with J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. She also practiced corporate law for two years, in New York City and London, and was a law clerk for Judge Joseph Greenaway on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

---

Marina Lao, Professor of Law, Seton Hall University School of Law

Marina Lao, the Board of Visitors Research Scholar and the Edward S. Hendrickson Professor of Law, joined the Seton Hall law faculty in 1994 after over a decade of practice experience in government and in the private sector. She took a leave of absence from February 2015 through June 2016 to serve as the Director of the Office of Policy Planning at the U.S. Federal Trade Commission. Professor Lao teaches courses on antitrust law, business associations, administrative law, and commercial law. She has written, lectured, and commented extensively on antitrust law and policy. Additionally, Professor Lao has offered invited testimony to the House Judiciary Committee, and presented at hearings/workshops convened by the U.S. Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. She is a member of the advisory board of the American Antitrust Institute, and was Chair of the Section of Antitrust and Economic Regulation of the Association of American Law Schools.

Professor Lao was awarded a Fulbright Fellowship in 2007-2008 to the University of Munich and the Max Planck Institute for Intellectual Property, Competition and Tax Law in Munich, where she taught U.S. Antitrust Law. She was named the inaugural Maury Cartine Research Endowment Fellow in 2010, the Andrea Catania Fellow for Excellence in Teaching for 2003-2005, and the Dean’s Fellow for 2003-2005, and 2000-2001.

Professor Lao began her legal career with the U.S. Department of Justice, Antitrust Division, as a trial attorney under the Honors Program following graduation from Albany Law School on a three-year full scholarship.

---

Chanda Marlowe, Christopher Wolf Diversity Law Fellow, Future of Privacy Forum

Chanda Marlowe is the inaugural Christopher Wolf Diversity Law Fellow at Future of Privacy Forum, focusing on issues of data collection in online and mobile platforms, ad tech, and algorithmic fairness. During law school, Chanda worked as a legal intern for the Future of Privacy Forum, the ACLU of Northern California, the North Carolina Department of Justice, and the Honorable Judge Wanda Bryant at the North Carolina Court of Appeals. She also worked closely with the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill Center for Media Law and Policy as a Roy H. Park Fellow.

Chanda has a dual-degree (J.D./M.A.) from the UNC School of Law and the UNC School of Media and Journalism. Chanda also earned her M.A. in Teaching and her B.A. in English Language and Literature from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

---

Jasmine E. McNealy, Assistant Professor in the Department of Telecommunication, University of Florida – College of Journalism and Communications

Jasmine McNealy, JD, PhD is a Fellow at the Berkman-Klein Center for Internet & Society, Stanford's Digital Civil Society Lab, and an assistant professor at the University of Florida where she studies information, technology, community, and culture with a view toward influencing law and policy.

---

James Mickens, Associate Professor of Computer Science, Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences

James Mickens is an associate professor of computer science at Harvard University, as well as a faculty associate at the Berkman Klein Center for Internet & Society. His research focuses on the performance, security, and robustness of large-scale online services. Mickens received a B.S. degree in computer science from the Georgia Institute of Technology, and a Ph.D. in computer science from the University of Michigan. Before coming to Harvard, he spent six years as a researcher at Microsoft; he was also a visiting professor at MIT.

---

Andrew Moshirnia, Senior Lecturer in the Department of Business Law and Taxation, Monash University Business School

Dr. Andrew Moshirnia is a Senior Lecturer at Monash BLT. He is a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School, where he, as a staff writer for the Berkman Center's Digital Media Law Project, analyzed copyright infringement actions and takedown notices under the Digital Millennium Copyright Act. He clerked in Chicago for the Honorable Richard D. Cudahy of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit and taught telecommunications law at DePaul as an adjunct professor. He later clerked in Los Angeles for the Honorable Mariana R. Pfaelzer of the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California. He worked as the Empirical IP Fellow at Chicago-Kent. He taught copyright law and legal writing for the Program in International Intellectual Property Law and was a member of the Chicago IP Colloquium faculty.

Dr. Moshirnia has a Ph.D. in educational technology, with a concentration in statistics, from the University of Kansas. He worked for several years at firms in Los Angeles and Silicon Valley. He has published several articles in law reviews and education technology journals, including a co-authored behavioral economics study of whether legal argument matters in decision making. His current research focuses on the intersection of intellectual property rights and national security.

---

Kimberly Mutcherson, Co-Dean & Professor of Law, Rutgers Law School

Kimberly Mutcherson is Co-Dean and Professor of Law at Rutgers Law School in Camden. Her scholarly work is at the intersection of family law, health law, and bioethics. She writes on issues related to reproductive justice, with a focus on assisted reproduction, abortion, and maternal-fetal decision-making.

Professor Mutcherson teaches Family Law, Torts, South African Constitutional Law, and Bioethics, Babies, & Babymaking. She has served as a Senior Fellow/Sabbatical Visitor at the Center for Gender and Sexuality Law at Columbia Law School, a Visiting Scholar at the Center for Bioethics at the University of Pennsylvania, and as a fellow at the Institute for Research on Women at Rutgers University. She won a Center for Reproductive Rights Innovation in Scholarship Award in 2013 and a Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award in 2011.

She received her B.A. in history from the University of Pennsylvania and her J.D. from Columbia Law School where she was a Stone Scholar. At Columbia, she received the Samuel I. Rosenman Prize for excellence in public law courses and outstanding qualities of citizenship and leadership in the law school. She also received the Kirkland and Ellis Fellowship for post-graduate public interest work. Prior to joining the faculty at Rutgers School of Law in 2002, Professor Mutcherson was an Acting Assistant Professor of Lawyering at the New York University School of Law, a consulting attorney at the Center for Reproductive Law and Policy (now the Center for Reproductive Rights), and a Staff Attorney at the HIV Law Project.

Xuan-Thao Nguyen, Gerald L. Bepko Chair & Director of the Center for Intellectual Property Law and Innovation, Indiana University – Robert H. McKinney School of Law

Professor Nguyen is an internationally known legal scholar renowned for her expertise in the intersections of Intellectual Property, Secured Transactions, Bankruptcy, Licensing, and Taxation.

Professor Nguyen and Professor Jeffrey A. Maine recently co-authored The Intellectual Property Holding Company: Tax Use and Abuse from Victoria's Secret to Apple (Cambridge University Press 2017). Additionally, she is working on a new Secured Transactions book. She has co-authored treatises on Taxation of Intellectual Property (BNA Bloomberg 2nd Edition) and Licensing Intellectual Property (BNA Bloomberg). Recently, she published a new casebook on Transnational Intellectual Property Law (West Publishers 2016), in addition to her three other casebooks on Licensing Intellectual Property (Aspen Publishers), Taxation of Intellectual Property (Carolina Academic Press), and Intellectual Property Law (Vietnam National University Press).

She has also published over forty law review articles. Her articles have been cited by the Federal Circuit, the Third Circuit, the Ninth Circuit, federal district courts and state tax courts: Fair Wind Sailing, Inc. v. Dempster, 764 F.3d 303, 310 (3d Cir. 2014); In re Steelbuilding.com, 415 F.3d 1293 (Fed. Cir. 2005); Interstellar Starship Services, Ltd. v. Epix, Inc., 304 F.3d 936 (9th Cir. 2002); Times Mirror Magazines, Inc. v. Las Vegas Sports News, 212 F.3d 157, 175 (3d Cir. 2000); Spring Licensing Group, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 2015 WL 10321400 (Tax Court of NJ 2015); Salt Optics, Inc. v. Jand, Inc., 2011 WL 13055856 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 4, 2011); In re Interstate Bakeries Corp., 2010 WL 2332142, *7 (Bank.W.D.Mo. June 4, 2010); Ligotti v. Garofalo, 562 F.Supp.2d 204 (D.N.H. 2008); Blue Nile, Inc. v. Ice.com, Inc., 478 F.Supp.2d 1240 (W.D.Wash. 2007); EMSL Analytical, Inc. v. Testamerica Analytical Testing Corp., 2006 WL 892718 (D.N.J. April 4, 2006); Pharmacia Corp. v. Alcon Laboratories, Inc., 201 F.Supp.2d 335 (D.N.J. 2002).

She is a consultant for the World Bank/IFC on Secured Transactions in China, Vietnam, and the Mekong Region. In her consultant capacity, she conducts workshops and provides drafting comments to National Drafting Committees on Secured Transactions law and international best practices. She works with the Vietnam Supreme People's Court in the training of judges on Secured Transactions law. She regularly trains bank officials and attorneys in financing law. She currently serves on the Scientific Council, University of Economics & Law, Vietnam National University, shaping the strategic vision of the University. In 2009, Professor Nguyen was a Senior Fulbright Scholar at VNU School of Law in Hanoi. She serves as a Fulbright Scholars Peer Reviewer since 2010.

She is the recipient of the 2016 Grant Gilmore Award from the American College of Commercial Finance Lawyers for her outstanding publications: "In the Name of Patent Stewardship: The Federal Circuit's Overreach in Commercial Law," 67 Florida L. Rev. 127 (2015) and "Financing Innovation: Legal Development of Intellectual Property as Security in Financing, 1845-2014," 48 Indiana Law Review 509 (2015).

Professor Nguyen gained valuable insights through her practice years at Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson and Pryor, Cashman, Sherman & Flynn, in NYC, and counted Duke University Medical Center and physician-scientist Dr. Jonathan Stamler among her clients. She is registered to practice with the USPTO. She is a graduate of Northeastern University School of Law, J.D., and Oberlin College, BA with triple majors in Biology, Sociology, and Women's Studies.

In her spare time, Professor Nguyen enjoys hosting parties for her students and collecting fine arts with her husband, Erik Hille. She serves on the Board of Trustees, Dallas Museum of Art.

Professor Nguyen joined the faculty of IU McKinney Law in the summer of 2014, after serving for eleven years at the SMU Dedman School of Law faculty and three years at the Texas A & M University School of Law (Texas Wesleyan University School of Law).

Jennifer D. Oliva, Associate Professor of Law and Public Health & Director of the Veteran's Advocacy Clinic, West Virginia University College of Law; Visiting Research Scholar, The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, and Bioethics at Harvard Law School

Jennifer D. Oliva is an Associate Professor of Law and Public Health at West Virginia University. In the College of Law, she teaches torts, evidence, and public health law courses and directs the Veterans Advocacy Clinic. An honors graduate of the Georgetown University Law Center, Professor Oliva was a Public Interest Law Scholar and served as Executive Notes & Comments Editor of The Georgetown Law Journal. Prior to attending Georgetown, Professor Oliva earned a Masters in Business Administration at Balliol College, Oxford University. She was elected as a Rhodes and Truman Scholar while a cadet at the United States Military Academy at West Point. Subsequent to attending law school, Professor Oliva served as a federal appellate law clerk to the Honorable Stephanie K. Seymour on the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and the Honorable Thomas L. Ambro on the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Thereafter, she was appointed Deputy State Solicitor of the State of Delaware by then-Attorney General Beau Biden. Professor Oliva has worked in the appellate, white collar crime, and health/FDA law practice groups at national law firms and served as the General Counsel and Vice President of a regional behavioral health care company. She is United States Army veteran and admitted to the bar in Delaware, California, the District of Columbia, and West Virginia. Professor Oliva's professional memberships include, among other things, the American Association of Law Schools (AALS), American Health Lawyers Association (AHLA), American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics (ASLME), American Public Health Association (APHA), Food and Drug Law Institute (FDLI), The George Consortium, and the National Organization of Veterans Advocates (NOVA). She current serves on the board of the ACLU of West Virginia. Her work has been published by or is forthcoming in the Duke Law Journal, Northwestern University Law Review, Washington Law Review, Ohio State Law Journal, North Carolina Law Review, and George Mason Law Review. Professor Oliva is currenting serving as a visiting research scholar at The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, and Bioethics at Harvard Law School. She is thrilled to be joining the talented faculty of the Seton Hall University School of Law where she will teach Food and Drug Law, Evidence, and Neuroscience and the Law courses.

Frank A. Pasquale, Professor of Law, University of Maryland – Francis King Carey School of Law

Frank Pasquale is Professor of Law at the University of Maryland, and a member of the NCVHS at the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services. His book The Black Box Society (Harvard Univ. Press, 2015) has helped inform and shape the global algorithmic accountability movement. He has authored over 50 scholarly articles, including Law's Acceleration of Finance: Redefining the Problem of High-Frequency Trading (2015); Professional Judgment in an Era of Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning (2019), and A Rule of Persons, Not Machines (2019).

Najarian R. Peters, Assistant Professor & Faculty Fellow, Institute for Privacy Protection, Seton Hall University Law School

Najarian Peters, Esq., is Assistant Professor and Faculty Fellow in the Institute for Privacy Protection. In 2017 Professor Peters joined the Institute for Privacy Protection and spearheaded the Institute's programs and developed its structure, including the establishment and maturation of its School Outreach Program. The School Outreach Program is currently functioning in five schools in New Jersey and New York and received national attention in the Washington Post, CBS News, and Common Sense Media. In the spring of 2018, Professor Peters co-founded the Municipal Privacy Task Force which will focus on local governmental privacy issues in New Jersey. Professor Peters is currently developing programs for the Institute focused on government and corporations. Additionally, Professor Peters developed and will be teaching a new course called Blockchain, the Law, and Intellectual Property. Her research agenda focuses on privacy, localism, and compliance.

Professor Peters earned her undergraduate degree in Political Science from Xavier University of Louisiana and her Juris Doctorate from Notre Dame Law School where she received the Joseph Ciraoio Memorial Award, Africana Studies Book Award, and a fellowship at the Center for Social Concerns. As a Graduate Fellow at the Center for Social Concerns Professor Peters created and taught the multi-disciplinary undergraduate seminar, Environmental Justice and Human Rights in the Aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, which examined the intersectionality of race, class, and environmental justice informed by Catholic social thought. Professor Peters received Graduate Certifications in Pharmaceutical and Medical Device Law and Policy Compliance and Healthcare Compliance from Seton Hall Law School.

---

Brian Sheppard, Professor of Law & Associate Dean for J.D. and Graduate Admissions, Institute for Privacy Protection, Seton Hall University School of Law

Professor Sheppard's research examines the relationship between the manner in which the law is expressed and the consequences that it brings about. His areas of interest have been human behavior, such as judicial decision-making or lawyer conduct, and computer automation, such as the capacity for machines to interpret legal language. His work typically uses the insights of legal philosophy and the methodologies of behavioral psychology to investigate how the clarity of our legal directives changes the way that we justify or argue against state action. He is currently analyzing the connection between law's clarity and the development of natural language processing technology. His other academic interests include legal ethics, international law, jurisprudence, torts, entertainment law, and legal innovation.

He has published work on the Vanderbilt Law Review, Yale Press, the University of Toronto Law Journal, the Harvard Law Review Forum, and the Florida State University Law Review, among others. Professor Sheppard is a frequent contributor to national news publications regarding developments in legal services technology. He has also published op-eds in the New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, and the Boston Globe on issues of international justice.

Professor Sheppard also serves as an advisor on issues of ethics, political unrest, and injustice. Recently, he has been a high-profile commentator regarding the use of legal ethics against important lawyers connected to the Trump Presidency. In 2011, he was a co-author of the report analyzing the legality of the 2009 Honduran coup for the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Honduras, a project lauded by numerous governments as well as by the OAS and the UN. Professor Sheppard has also served as an empirical researcher and consultant for organizations such as the Perception Institute and the Last Resort Exoneration Project.

Professor Sheppard joined Seton Hall as an associate professor in 2010 after serving as a Climenko Fellow at Harvard Law School, where he earned his S.J.D. In the years before his fellowship, he served as a law clerk in Boston for Justice Martha B. Sosman of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts and for Judge Levin H. Campbell of the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit. While studying at Harvard Law School, he continued to work at the First Circuit as a staff attorney, working largely on criminal and immigration cases. He also coordinated the Law Teaching Colloquium of the school's Graduate Program. Before then, Professor Sheppard earned his LL.M. from Harvard Law School and his J.D. from Boston College Law School. He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar.

---

Michael Veale, PhD Candidate in the Department of Science, Technology, Engineering and Public Policy (STePP), University College London

Michael Veale is a doctoral researcher in responsible public sector machine learning at University College London, an honorary research fellow at Birmingham Law School, and an incoming Digital Charter Fellow at the Turing Institute, specialising in the social impact of machine learning in the public sector and the interplay between data-driven technologies and data protection law. His research has been cited by national and international bodies, regulators, the media, and debated in Parliament. He has consulted for a range of international organisations on these issues, including the European Commission, World Bank and the Commonwealth, as well as for the Royal Society and the British Academy. He tweets (too much) at @mikarv.

---

Salome Viljoen, Fellow in the Privacy Initiatives and Berklett Cybersecurity Projects, Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society at Harvard Law School

Salome is a Fellow in the Privacy Initiatives and Berklett Cybersecurity Projects at the Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society.

Salome's research focuses on the intersection between law, technology and inequality. She is particularly interested in how the law governing technology facilitates the concentration of private power, and the distributive impacts of privacy and cybersecurity governance regimes.

Before coming to the Berkman Center, Salome was an associate at Fenwick and West, LLP, where she worked with technology company clients on a broad variety of matters. She has a JD from Harvard Law School, an MSc from the London School of Economics, and a BA in Political Economy from Georgetown University.

---

Ari Ezra Waldman, Professor of Law & Director of Innovation Center for Law and Technology, New York Law School

Ari Ezra Waldman is Professor of Law and the Founding Director of the Innovation Center for Law and Technology at New York Law School. He is also an Affiliate Fellow of the Information Society Project at Yale Law School. Ari researches how law and technology mediate social life, with particular focus on privacy, technology design, online speech, and the experiences of marginalized populations. And he has won numerous awards for his scholarship, including the 2019 Privacy Papers for Policymakers Award, the 2018 Deirdre G. Martin Memorial Lecturer on Privacy, and the 2017 Best Paper Award at the Privacy Law Scholars Conference, among others. His first book, Privacy As Trust: Information Privacy for an Information Age (Cambridge University Press 2018), argues privacy law should protect as private information shared in contexts of trust. His scholarship has been or will soon be published in leading law reviews including the Washington University Law Review (twice), the Cornell Law Review, the Iowa Law Review, the Indiana Law Journal, and the Fordham Law Review, among others, and in peer-reviewed journals such as Law and Social Inquiry and the Journal of the Association of Consumer Research. He holds a Ph.D. in sociology from Columbia University, a J.D. from Harvard Law School, and a B.A. from Harvard College.

---