2024 Fall Session Registration Information
Seton Hall University School of Law

MLS Program

The MLS Program is a 31-credit degree which can be completed entirely online or as a hybrid online/traditional in-person degree, at the student's option. MLS students who elect to pursue a hybrid online/in-person degree attend live electives and sit side-by-side with Juris Doctor (JD) and post-JD (LLM) students.

Students who enrolled beginning in June 2019 or later must enroll in the four required foundational courses, followed by four concentration courses and two elective courses.

MLS students must elect to pursue a concentration area:
- Corporate Compliance (formerly known as Financial Services Compliance)
- Gaming Regulation
- General Legal Studies
- Health & Hospital Law
- Law and the Creative Industries (formerly known as Intellectual Property Law)
- Pharmaceutical & Medical Device Law & Compliance
- Privacy Law & Cyber Security
- Sports Law

Dual concentrations may be pursued. An MLS student pursuing a dual concentration in any two of Corporate Compliance (formerly Financial Services Compliance), Gaming Regulation, Health & Hospital Law, Law and the Creative Industries (formerly known as Intellectual Property Law), Pharmaceutical & Medical Device Law & Compliance, Privacy Law & Cyber Security or Sports Law & Compliance must take 12 credits in the primary concentration and nine credits in the secondary concentration to be awarded the Dual Degree.

Once a course of study is chosen, all MLS students are required to take four foundational courses in an ONLINE format. In addition to the foundation courses, MLS students must satisfy the requirements for the concentration area they have chosen through a combination of online or in-person core and elective classes. For the complete list of approved classes in each concentration area, follow the links below:

In 2022, Seton Hall Law School renamed its Master of Science in Jurisprudence degree (MSJ) to the Master of Legal Studies degree (MLS). This change was made in response to feedback from alumni, current and prospective students, as well as changes in market data.

Seton Hall Law was a pioneer in offering legal master’s degrees for non-lawyers who sought a degree for professional enhancement in highly regulated fields; the first class began in 1997. Without peers, we believed at that time that the MSJ name was most fitting for our legal studies curriculum. As many other schools have followed our lead, however, it has become apparent that the MLS designation has become the industry standard. By changing the name, we expect that our degree will be more easily recognized by employers/human resources departments. Additionally, the plain language of “Legal Studies” strongly reflects the law-guided nature of the jobs most graduates perform upon graduation. It also embodies the practical nature of the skills acquired and abilities of the graduates upon completion of the program.

The name change comes on the heels of the launch of our improved, flexible approach to concentrations. In order to empower our students to meet the rapidly changing demands of the professional world, we have broadened the scope of the concentrations for the General Legal Studies track that became part of the catalog of programs in 2021.

Students of the master’s program at Seton Hall Law School who earned their degree before 2023 graduated with a Master of Science in Jurisprudence (MSJ). All other students will graduate with a Master of Legal Studies (MLS).
