Adam Weinstein

Litigation & Compliance Counsel
Candela Medical

Adam Weinstein is Litigation and Compliance Counsel at medical aesthetics device company Candela Medical, where he reports to the company's Chief Legal Officer. Mr. Weinstein oversees Candela's global compliance program, in addition to handling a broad range of litigation and dispute resolution matters.

Mr. Weinstein previously managed the compliance investigations function for Arthrex, Inc., a medical device manufacturer specializing in orthopedic products and surgical techniques. At Arthrex, Mr. Weinstein led investigations into potential violations of law or company policy across all global business units. Prior to working at Arthrex, Mr. Weinstein was an associate in the White-Collar and Regulatory Defense group of Hughes Hubbard & Reed LLP, an international law firm headquartered in New York City.

Mr. Weinstein has extensive corporate compliance experience, including conducting internal investigations, developing and executing compliance policies and procedures, training employees on a variety of anti-corruption matters, and conducting compliance due diligence as part of M&A transactions or in connection with the engagement of third-parties.

Mr. Weinstein graduated with a J.D from Boston College Law School and earned his B.A. from Brandeis University.
