Alejandra Villada

Senior Assoiate

Lloreda Camacho & Co.

Alejandra Villada is a Senior Associate at Lloreda Camacho, where her practice focuses on business ethics, compliance and corporate risk management. She advises national and multinational companies, as well as non-profit organizations, on the design, implementation and assessment of compliance programs, particularly in the areas of anti-corruption, transnational bribery, anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing.

She has significant experience advising companies in the pharmaceutical and life sciences industries, as well as in other highly regulated sectors. She has also served as an outsourced Ethics and Compliance Officer for organizations across different industries, advising management bodies and regional teams on risk assessments, internal controls, third-party due diligence, internal investigations and regulatory compliance.

Alejandra holds a law degree and a postgraduate degree in Commercial Law from Pontificia Universidad Javeriana in Bogotá, Colombia. She also holds a Master's degree in Compliance, Fraud and Money Laundering, with a specialization in Risk Management, from EALDE Business School and Universidad Católica de Murcia in Spain.
