Bryan Parr is of counsel in the Washington, D.C. office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher and a member of the White Collar Defense and Investigations, Anti-Corruption & FCPA, and Litigation Practice Groups.

His practice focuses on white-collar defense and regulatory compliance matters around the world. Bryan has extensive expertise in government and corporate investigations, including those involving the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and anticorruption. He has defended a range of companies and individuals in U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), SEC, and CFTC enforcement actions, as well as in litigation in federal courts and in commercial arbitrations. In his FCPA practice, Bryan regularly guides companies on creating and implementing effective compliance programs, successfully navigating compliance monitorships, and conducting appropriate M&A-related FCPA diligence and integration.

He is recognized as a leading corporate crime and investigations lawyer by Chambers & Partners Latin America for his significant activity and experience in the region. He is proficient in Portuguese, French, and Spanish, and works professionally in all three languages.

Bryan represents and counsels clients in matters across a number of industries, including technology, life sciences, mining and extractive, petrochemical, and aerospace and defense industries.

Prior to joining the firm, he was a partner at a major international law firm. Bryan graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law in 2007, where he was an editorial board member of the Virginia Journal of International Law. He also graduated magna cum laude from Duke University with a B.A. in French and Comparative Area Studies in 2002.

Bryan is licensed to practice in the State of New York, the State of Massachusetts, and in the District of Columbia and is admitted to practice before various federal district and appellate courts.
