

SETON HALL | LAW

Chris Ellis, Jr.

Senior Counsel

Audacy, Inc.

Chris Ellis, Jr. is an attorney currently serving as Senior Counsel at Audacy, Inc., where he provides strategic legal guidance to the company's radio markets and stations. Previously, Chris spent several years at Paramount Global and its predecessor entities, focusing on the global enforcement of intellectual property rights across all of Paramount's divisions. Earlier in his career, he practiced at the boutique commercial law firm Nissenbaum Law Group and served as a law clerk in the New Jersey Superior Court, Chancery Division.

Chris serves on the board of embrella, a nonprofit organization supporting children in foster care. His prior service includes roles as an attorney mentor with NJ LEEP, Vice Chair of the Entertainment and Sports Law Section of the Metropolitan Black Bar Association, and Regional Vice Chair of the Northeast Black Law Students Association.

Chris received his Juris Doctor from Rutgers School of Law – Newark, his Master of Arts in Systematic Theology from Seton Hall University, and his Bachelor of Science in Television and Film from St. John's University.