

SETON HALL | LAW

Healthcare Compliance
Certificate Program

Emma Worthington

SVP/Head of Ethics & Compliance

Takeda (Singapore)

For over 21 years, Emma has been providing pragmatic legal and compliance advice to businesses. Professional in drafting and negotiating a variety of international commercial contracts based on detailed research she has a proven ability in dealing with Regulators and industry specialists first hand.

Emma joined Takeda to head the ethics and compliance function for Growth and Emerging Markets (LATAM, NEMEA, Russia/ CIS, Greater China and APAC).

Prior to joining Takeda, Emma worked for Diageo with responsibility to embed the control, compliance and ethics programme in Asia Pacific. Emma moved to Singapore from London in 2005 with Reuters, where she was able to develop her leadership skills and expand her expertise into the field of compliance.

A confident public speaker, Emma has been regularly invited to speak to a wide variety of audiences, globally, (New York, Europe and Asia) on various compliance and privacy topics.

Commercially focused and experienced in handling complex queries from all levels of seniority both internally (business) and externally (clients). Throughout her career Emma has always been proactive in developing business relationships and gaining support.

Emma is an excellent communicator with strong people skills and a high degree of integrity.

In her free time Emma enjoys practicing yoga and reading. A keen runner, Emma competes in a number of different distance races.

Specialties:

- * Provider of legal / corporate compliance advice.
- * International understanding of law and regulatory requirements across different jurisdictions
- * Data Protection / Privacy expert
- * Excellent negotiation skills
- * Variety of global commercial contracts (confidentiality, partnership, consultancy, software license, international distribution, manufacturing, agency and novation agreements)
- * Strategies, policies and guidance