

Kelly Harris

Senior Vice President, Law & Compliance
Blackstone

Kelly is Senior Vice President at Blackstone, where she focuses on global cybersecurity and privacy law compliance, as well as proactive risk mitigation. She began her career as a white-collar criminal defense attorney before moving in-house, where she has held senior roles at major global organizations.

After helping to build Wyndham's privacy and information security programs in the wake of a highly publicized data breach, she went on to serve at Prudential Financial and later as Global Head of Cyber Law at Swiss bank UBS. In her current role at Blackstone, she advises on complex, cross-border privacy and cybersecurity issues, regulatory compliance, and risk management strategies.

A graduate of Rutgers University and Seton Hall University School of Law, Kelly has been part of the CIPP Bootcamp faculty for over 5 years, sharing her practical experience and passion for the field with the next generation of privacy professionals.
