

Hepatitis C Elimination Symposium
April 4, 2025

Kevin Leyden, BSN, RN

Research Nurse Coordinator

North Jersey Community Research Initiative (NJCRI)

Kevin Leyden has been a registered nurse for nearly 15 years, with experience in medical/surgical, emergency, and addictions nursing. He currently specializes in infectious diseases, particularly hepatitis C. Since joining North Jersey Community Research Initiative (NJCRI), Kevin has led the creation, development, and management of the statewide HCV Elimination Program, which serves all 21 counties in New Jersey and has coordinated care for over 2,200 patients. Through his efforts, he has built a network of nearly 80 partners across the state, enabling the program to offer hepatitis C treatment to anyone interested in pursuing a cure.

Kevin has long been involved in the substance use and treatment communities. He is a member of the International Nurses Society on Addictions (IntNSA) and received the 2020 Davida Coady Gorham Medical Professional of the Year Award from NAADAC, the Association for Addiction Professionals. Additionally, Mr. Leyden serves as the Research Nurse Coordinator at NJCRI and has presented numerous abstracts at both national and international conferences.
