Laetitia Ducroquet was appointed Vice President, Deputy Chief Business Ethics Officer in 2022, after holding various pivotal roles within the Business Ethics department at Ipsen since 2025.

In this capacity, she oversees the execution and continuous improvement of both internal and Third-Party Business Ethics programs driving Ipsen's mission to maintain the highest standards of integrity and accountability in all operations. She collaborates closely with senior leaders and business teams to foster a culture of ethics and accountability, ensuring that the interests of patients, employees, and other stakeholders are upheld.

Laetitia's extensive background in pharmacy, combined with her business acumen, uniquely positions her to navigate the complex ethical landscape of the pharmaceutical industry. She earned her pharmacy degree from Paris V University and furthered her education with a degree from the EM Lyon Business School. Her academic and professional journey reflects a commitment to excellence and a passion for ethical leadership.

Beyond her professional achievements, Laetitia is known for her proactive approach to promoting ethical practices and her dedication to continuous learning and improvement.

Laetitia is also co-chair at the Executive committee of ETHICS association.
