Matt has spent his career on the frontlines of legal risk and compliance transformation—from the boardroom to the DOJ. As a pioneering CECO at AB InBev, Matt integrated data, analytics and artificial intelligence into a global compliance risk management system – BrewRIGHT.

In government service, Matt was responsible for launching technologies to identify and pursue white-collar crime while leading corporate compliance evaluations across a range of industries – along with playing a key role in formulating DOJ's corporate policies on both plains.

Matt consults with governments, boards of directors, and senior leaders of multinationals worldwide on modern compliance, technology and enforcement expectations around data, governance, and internal controls and the optimal use of data to generate predictive insights and mitigate risk. He has led investigations in over thirty jurisdictions and has led organizations through crises.

Matt is an attorney admitted to practice in New York, the District of Columbia (pending), and Hong Kong, has practiced in the U.S. and Asia, and speaks Mandarin.
