Partner

Tauil & Chequer Advogados/Mayer Brown

Michel Sancovski is a partner of Tauil & Chequer Advogados in the São Paulo Office and co-head of the Mayer Brown's global White Collar Defense & Compliance practice.

He focuses on corporate compliance and anti-corruption matters and his experience includes advising in anti-corruption compliance cases, taking into account local and foreign laws, coordinating highly complex major investigations, developing, reviewing and implementing compliance programs, and assisting with anti-corruption due diligences in third parties and in the context of M&A transactions and IPOs.

He is also a director of IBRADEMP, co-coordinator of the Anti-corruption & Compliance Committee, and a guest professor at renowned institutions, where he often lectures in compliance courses.

Michel has great experience in the defense of administrative and judicial processes originating from the application of the several anti-corruption laws, as well as in the negotiation of settlements and in the cooperation with regulators and authorities in Brazil and in the US.

Michel co-led and coordinated an internal investigation that is deemed one of the world's largest investigations. He occupied a prominent position in the interaction with the Special Committee of the investigation, the company's Board of Directors and in the settlement agreement negotiation with Brazilian and US authorities.

Since 2019, Michel has been annually named by Global Investigations Review and Who's Who Legal as a Future Leader in the investigations area, which focuses on the leading practitioners aged under 45.
