Nancy Grygiel serves as senior vice president and chief compliance officer, responsible for Amgen's global privacy, trade and compliance organization. Nancy joined Amgen in 2015, and was vice president of compliance, responsible for overseeing Amgen's healthcare and anti-corruption compliance programs in all markets. In addition, Nancy has been accountable for reporting status and effectiveness of the Program; its elements, and ongoing activities to Amgen's CEO operating teams, and to the company's Corporate Responsibility and Compliance Committee (CRCC), on an ongoing basis.

Prior to joining Amgen, Nancy served as vice president, compliance, at Allergan. In that role, she was responsible for the implementation and execution of the corporate compliance program's global strategy. In addition, Nancy led cross-functional M&A compliance-related efforts and served as an advisor to the corporate audit function on FCPA and other applicable in-country healthcare laws and regulations.

Prior to Allergan, Nancy held positions of increasing responsibility at Mylan Pharmaceuticals, responsible for developing and establishing the company's export controls and international compliance program, as a result of the company's rapid global expansion in 2007.

Earlier in her career, Nancy worked in the legal field with a focus on international laws; transnational business transactions, export-control laws, as well as in-house legal roles within the telecommunications industry in her home country, Argentina.

Nancy has a law degree from Buenos Aires University and a Master of Laws degree (LL.M) from Georgetown University Law Center.
