

Veronica R. Glick

Partner

Mayer Brown

vglick@mayerbrown.com

Veronica Glick, a partner in Mayer Brown's Washington DC office, is a member of the firm's National Security and Cybersecurity & Data Privacy practices. She is also a member of the firm's Litigation and Dispute Resolution practice and Congressional Investigations & Crisis Management team. Veronica focuses her practice on complex and cutting-edge legal issues regarding national security, cybersecurity and international law. She regularly partners with clients to manage risk by putting in place business-oriented compliance programs and training employees on data breach responses.

Veronica serves on a pro bono basis as Deputy Chief Counsel for Cybersecurity and National Security to the US Cyberspace Solarium Commission, a bipartisan commission established by Congress to develop a comprehensive strategy to defend the US from significant attacks in cyberspace. Veronica also serves as a member of the United Nations Experts Committee countering terrorism through information and communications technologies (ICT), including with regard to prevention of exploitation of ICT and initiatives to facilitate sharing of digital evidence. Veronica is currently a member of the Planning Committee for the 2020-2021 Cybersecurity Law Institute at Georgetown University Law Center.

Veronica received a JD from Columbia Law School, where she was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar, a John Paul Stevens Fellow, recipient of the Parker School Recognition of Achievement in International and Comparative Law, and a member of the Columbia Journal of Transnational Law. She received an LLB from the London School of Economics. Veronica is member of the Bar of the State of New York and of the District of Columbia.