William E. Baroni Jr.

Adjunct Professor of Law

Seton Hall University School of Law

William E. Baroni Jr. is currently an adjunct professor of law at Seton Hall University School of Law where he teaches education law, prison law, and election law. Baroni is also currently a self-employed attorney and criminal justice consultant. Prior to his career in teaching, Baroni started his career in politics working on the 1988 campaign of his hometown U.S. representative, Christopher H. Smith. In 2001, Baroni was general counsel for congressman Bob Franks's gubernatorial campaign. In 2003, Baroni was elected to the General Assembly, and in 2007, Baroni became the State Senator of the 14th legislative district. In 2010, New Jersey Governor Chris Christie named Baroni to serve as the Deputy Executive Director of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. Outside of politics, Baroni was an associate at Decotiis, Fitzpatrick & Cole, LLP, and then at Blank Rome, LLP. He was also of counsel at Fornaro Francioso, LLC. Baroni received his B.A. in history from George Washington University and received his J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law.
